A Note Written On Your Skin

Some fire lives beneath the skin, quiet enough to hide, bright enough to change everything once someone touches the right place.

This album was born in that heat, the kind that rises slowly, like breath on a collarbone, like a hand tracing the edge of night before the body admits what it wants.

Every track is a doorway into that warmth.
A pulse meeting another pulse.
A dream curling around a waist.
A voice drifting close enough to move the air between two mouths.
The soft shock of being seen.
The trembling calm of being wanted.

There is a moment in these songs where desire stops behaving.
Where the stories we inherit fall away from the flesh, and the body speaks a truer language.
one made of heat, of rhythm, of the small, shivering truths we only reveal in the dark.

From that moment on, nothing stays the same.
Breath becomes invitation.
Touch becomes decision.
And love is no longer a rule but a direction the body chooses to follow.

These songs won't tell you what to feel.
They will only take your hand, pull you close,
and show you the light that rises when you let yourself want without fear.

If you enter this album, enter with your whole skin.
Let it warm you,
let it open you,
let it undo you just enough to find the breath that returns when something, or someone, touches you right.

This album is for the part of you that burns quietly, and finally decides not to hide.

Let You Be

Light hits water moves like skin
I feel the distance breathing in
You slide through shadows soft and thin
A rhythm rising under my grin
Your steps are waves that pull me tight
You break my chest like morning light
I catch your motion in the night
A quiet spark a tiny fight

You move I feel the shift
Slow tide a hidden lift

So go where you glow
I let you move how you move
If the distance keeps growing
I still fall into your groove
You're a warm little echo
Running straight through my chest
You're the light on the water
And the beat in my breath

Your voice drips slow like neon rain
It hits my ribs rewires my brain
You've got that motion I can't contain
A touch of fire inside the vein
Your skin's a map I memorised
A flash of heat then vaporised
You cross the room I realise
My pulse is something you hypnotise

You move I feel the drift
Soft wave a subtle shift

So go where you glow
I let you move how you move
If the distance keeps growing
I still fall into your groove
You're a warm little echo
Running straight through my chest
You're the light on the water
And the beat in my breath

You bend through the chords like smoke in the night
Your shape in the dark is a ribbon of light
You touch without touching but still it ignites
I keep letting go but it still feels right

Be the wave that you are
Be the light that you see
If you move into distance
You still move in me

Whisper in Your Wake

There's a quiet heat between the beats
A drift you leave inside my chest
You move like meaning in the dark
A soft command without a request
Your shadow brushes over mine
Not touching still it starts a spark
You leave a rhythm in my spine
A warm persuasion in the dark

Your breath a hidden sign
Pulls the edges of my line

Whisper in your wake I fall where your silence bends
You don't need to take I rise where your motion sends
If you fade to distance Your echo still rewrites me
You're the pulse I taste in quiet And the shift I never see

You speak in currents through the haze
A tone that hums beneath my skin
You light the air with subtle ways
A touch that turns me from within You're not a force that breaks or binds
You're just the warmth that finds the seam
You tune the tempo of my mind
A soft alignment in the stream

Your breath a gentle sign
Threads its color into mine

Whisper in your wake I fall where your silence bends
You don't need to take I rise where your motion sends
If you fade to distance Your echo still rewrites me
You're the pulse I taste in quiet And the shift I never see

Not a chain not a claim just a wave in my nerve You're the curve in the dark that my shadows observe
Not a push not a pull just a breath on my thought
And my rhythm aligns where your presence is caught
You remind what I wanted before I could say
You awaken the spark that was already underway
If your steps turn away your temperature stays
And I move in the traces your silence conveys

Leave your light where you go
I'll follow the sound it makes
If the distance keeps growing
I'll move in the path it shapes
Be the warmth that you are
Be the truth that you take Your whisper stays inside me
Like a tide you didn't break

Dreamskin

I drift to the edges of your night
Where all your hidden colours start
I slide between the echoes in your mind
A quiet shape that learns your heart
If you breathe in shadows I'll be near
A spark that settles in your sleep
I fall into the rhythm of your fear
And turn it soft and turn it deep

If dreams are doors you never see
I'll find the one that calls to me

I want to move inside your dreaming
Wrap the dark around our light
Two souls folded into meaning
One slow pulse in the quiet night
No time no place just motion
Your breath dissolving into mine
If love is just a trembling ocean
Let me drift beneath your tide

I trace the warmth beneath your thought
The part you never dare to speak
I touch the place where hours stop
A soft collapse a silver leak
Your sleep becomes a trembling room
A space where bodies turn to sound
I lean inside your silent bloom
And feel you rising underground

If dreams are gates that flicker thin
I'll step through where you pull me in

I want to move inside your dreaming
Wrap the dark around our light
Two souls folded into meaning
One slow pulse in the quiet night
No time no place just motion
Your breath dissolving into mine
If love is just a trembling ocean
Let me drift beneath your tide

In the hush of your mind I bend and turn
A flick of heat where your shadows burn
If the night breaks open I'll slip through the seam
A pulse a spark a body of dream
No dawn no line no border to keep Just you unfolding inside your sleep
If our two lives blur into one soft frame
I'll take the shift and you take my name

Hold me where your dreams begin
Let me wear your pulse as skin
Day or night I stay within Two souls one breath no end no time

Where the Wind Found Us

Night breaks open shadows lean
Your breath is woven into mine
The storm outside begins to sing
A trembling pulse along the spine
We move like secrets in the dark
Two bodies learning how to stay
In that soft place where silence marks
The words we're too afraid to say

If the wind remembers everything
Then let it carry what we bring

Take me where the wind found us
In the darkness skin to skin
No fear no rush just quiet trust
Your heartbeat folding me within
If the world falls into thunder
Let it rage I'll drift with you
Every storm we break asunder
Leaves a trace the wind pulls through

Your voice is warm like flooded light
Soft edges glowing through the rain
You touch my name without a sound
And every tremor feels the same
Two souls without a map or time
Just breath that circles in the room
We shape the dusk we bend the night
We turn the darkness into bloom

If the wind can hold what slips away
Then let it guard the things we say

Take me where the wind found us
In the darkness skin to skin
No fear no rush just quiet trust
Your heartbeat folding me within
If the world falls into thunder
Let it rage I'll drift with you
Every storm we break asunder
Leaves a trace the wind pulls through

We're air we're pulse we're moving heat
A fragile spark beneath the storm
We break we rise we fall repeat
Two shadows learning to transform
No line no border in the night
Just breath that knows the shape of us
If love is wind without a sight
Then let it cross then let it rush

Stay where the wind still knows our names
Where silence warms the coldest frames
If time dissolves we'll do the same
Two souls returning through the flame

Afterlight

Your breath is ember on my skin
A soft glow breaking from within Night falls lazy down your spine
I touch the edges where you shine
Your body speaks in quiet fire
A pulse that drags me through the wire
Every sigh becomes a sign
A doorway into something mine

In the afterlight
Your warmth rewrites my night

Stay in the afterlight
Where your shadow melts in me
Where the heat of you is quiet
But it moves beneath my ribs
If the world turns back to silence
Let your glow be what I keep
A soft burn under the surface
A light I hold in sleep

Your hands remember where I break
They trace the lines I never make You press your forehead into mine
Our breath becomes a single line
You move like truth against my chest
A slow confession in my flesh
No need to rush no need to name
Your body knows me just the same

In the afterlight
You're the color in my quiet

Stay in the afterlight
Where your shadow melts in me
Where the heat of you is quiet
But it moves beneath my ribs
If the world turns back to silence
Let your glow be what I keep
A soft burn under the surface
A light I hold in sleep

Your skin's a map my pulse decodes
A slow wave language the darkness holds
You slip through the curves where my guard unfolds Igniting the places I never told
We move like a secret that no one sees
Two beats falling into symmetry
If dawn tries tearing your heat from me
Your afterlight stays in the seams of my breathing

Don't fade tonight
Stay soft stay bright
I'll keep your fire inside
I'll keep your afterlight

Unbound

They drew our hearts in patterns old
Stitched fate in silver threads of gold
They said desire was blood and bone
A silent script we couldn't own
But something broke along the line
Your warmth turned shadow into shine
You lit the pulse beneath my skin
A rising truth I've never been

If truth is just a note they tried to bind
I'll let it shift to clarity in my mind

I am unbound
No strings around my breath tonight
Love isn't coded in the bone
It's in the glow we pull from light
If the world draws borders in the dark
I'll cross them bright I'll cross them sharp
I'm unbound
A rising fire in your spark

They carved our choices into vows
Said hearts were clocks allowed to bow
But I have seen the hidden wells
The ways that break the ways that tell
Your skin reshaped my inner tones
Rewrote the scale beneath my bones
You cut the thread you freed the sound
And every chord in me unwound

If fate was just a map they pinned in fear
I'll bend the notes and draw you near

I am unbound
No shadows tied to where I move
Love isn't written like a rule
It's in the heat our bodies prove
If the night pulls tight around our name
I'll lift it up I'll change its frame
I'm unbound
And burning into flame

Cut the script they handed me
The one that claimed my symmetry
I'm more than cells or legacy
I'm breath I'm pulse I'm alchemy
No shape can tell me who to be
No rule owns how you move through me
If love is wild electricity
I'll ride the spark they couldn't see

Unbound unmade
Your light against my shade
If freedom has a sound
It's the note that lifts your name
Unbound I rise again in flame

Second Breath

I feel your heat beneath my ribs
A second breath the night forgives
You touch my skin and break the rules
No borrowed vows no ancient tools
Your hands remember where I rise
A living truth behind my eyes
You move like light across my chest
A pulse that teaches me the rest

If this is breath returned to me
Then let it move through everything

This second breath
Your warmth against my open frame
No scripts to hold no names to claim
Just body answering body again
This second breath
The fire where our shadows blend
If freedom lives beneath the flesh
I'll breathe you in and back again

You trace the heat beneath my spine
A new desire a newer line
No fate to tell me who to be Just flesh that learns your symmetry
Your lips rewrite the dark I keep Your weight unfolds what used to sleep
We breathe in time a shifting tide
No walls between no need to hide

If this is breath we choose to share
I'll pull you close and keep you there

This second breath
Your warmth against my open frame
No scripts to hold no names to claim
Just body answering body again
This second breath
The fire where our shadows blend
If freedom lives beneath the flesh
I'll breathe you in and back again

No chains no fate no borrowed skin
Just heat that calls me back within
You move and all my edges shift
You teach my breath the way to lift
I'm born again in how you touch
A flame that doesn't need too much
Your body pulls me past what's known
A second breath I claim as home

Breathe again
Where all our shadows end
In this second breath
I rise I bend I blend

My Body Made of Light

I feel your light move under my skin
A quiet heat that pulls me in
You trace my breath with fingertips
A glow that rises past my lips
No shadows left between our names
Just warmth that changes what remains
You touch the dark I used to hide
And turn it soft from deep inside

If every spark becomes a sign
Then let your glow return to mine

My body made of light
A warmth that opens through the night
No fear no scripts no borrowed lines
Just you and I in rising shine If everything we are is fire
Then let it burn a little higher My body made of light
And pulled toward something brighter

Your breath is heat against my frame
A silver tremor through my veins
You press your palm along my spine
And every fault becomes divine
No need for rules no need for roles
Just touch rewriting all my folds
You lift the dark from where I bend
And teach my pulse to rise again

If every glow you leave is true
Then let it shine me back to you

My body made of light
A warmth that opens through the night
No fear no scripts no borrowed lines
Just you and I in rising shine If everything we are is fire
Then let it burn a little higher My body made of light
And pulled toward something brighter

No shadows now no weight no wall
Just breath that lifts and doesn't fall
You move and all my edges glow
As if my skin remembers more
Than I have ever dared to show

My body made of light
A blaze that carries us in flight
No end no time no distant sky
Just you and I where warmth survives
If what we are is endless fire
Then let it rise then let it rise
My body made of light And rising into Brighter night

Brighter
Brighter
My body made of light
